Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-10, 12-19, 21-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Penso (3684056).

Penso (figures 1-4) shows a retractable column having at least two section chains (31) arranged in an adjacent manner, the section chain having a plurality of sections pivotally connected to each other, an at least one chain connection member (45, figure 3) extending in an outward direction from each section wherein the connection members further comprise a surface which slopes toward a point and whereby the chain connection members couple to one another to link each section chain to the adjacent section chain in such manner as to form a rigid column as the section chains are raised in an operably position (figure 4), the connection member being curved (figure 3), the connection member having an elongated shaft and a distal hook portion wherein the surface of the chain connection member that converges toward a point is represented by the distal hook portion, first hook attached to each section of the section chains, the first hook extending in a horizontal manner from each section, a second hook attached to the opposite side of each section from the first hook and in an offset manner whereby each first hook on a section is adjacent to an offset hook on adjacent section, a first chain connection member extending in a substantially outward direction from the section and a second chain connection member extending in a substantially outward direction from the section and wherein a plane running through the hook of the second chain connection member being set at an angle to the elongated shaft, the shaft of the connection member having a shoulder wherein the shoulder portion prevents twisting of the shaft in relation to its connection to the section, a guide tower operably positioned relative to the two section chains wherein the guide tower engages the sections and helps to guide the first and second hooks into coupled engagement, at least one guide roller (32) operably connected to the guide tower and operably interacting with the section chains whereby the guide rollers engage the sections and helps to guide the first and second hooks into coupled engagement, at least one shim (34), the shims operably affixed to the guide tower whereby the shims engage the sections (indirectly) and helps to guide the first and second hooks into coupled engagement, at least one interior roller, the interior rollers operably affixed to the guide tower whereby the interior rollers engage the sections and helps to guide the first and second hooks into coupled engagement, a gear rack (figure 1) fixedly connected to each section of the section chain, the gear rack affixed by an extruded T-slot to which fasteners are attached through the gear rack and into the section whereby the gear rack is positioned to engage a drive mechanism and at least one guide roller, at least one key is inserted into an at least one slot thereby affixing the gear rack to the section of the section chain, the drive mechanism (104) is operably attached to guide tower and operably interacts with the section chains whereby actuation of the mechanism raises the section chains into position so that the first and second hooks engage to form the column, a kicker operably attached to the crossbar of each section of the section chain whereby when the section is taken up by the take up mechanism, the kicker shunts the section into a properly seated position relative to the section underneath it on the take up mechanism (figures 1, 4).

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 10/20/03 to claims 1-10, 12-19, 21-22 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant states that the "section chain" and "chain connection member" in Penso reference are not equivalent structures to applicant's "section chain" and "chain connection member", examiner respectfully disagrees. Penso reference shows all of the claimed structures relating to "section chain" and "chain connection member", Penso thus teaches applicant's claimed structures. In response to applicant's argument that Penso teaches lifting a scaffolding unit, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. See In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963). The argument is thus moot.

Conclusion

2. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37

CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
